1. Introduction

This section describes the consultation process that Jefferson County follows in developing all of its CDBG Plans.

Provide a concise summary of the jurisdiction's activities to enhance coordination between public and assisted housing providers and private and governmental health, mental health and service agencies (91.215(l)).

Jefferson County continues makes all plans and documents available to the public at various public facilities located throughout the County which are available to all citizens including persons with disabilities, minorities and any non-English speaking citizens. In future plans, Jefferson County will attempt to publish such plans on the web in addition to hard copies being distributed to better provide the information to all citizens.

Additionally, to enhance continued coordination, Jefferson County participates in quarterly meetings of the Jefferson County Housing Solutions Coalition (JHSC), a group comprised of individuals and organizations from various low-to-moderate income housing and service providers within the County, attends St. Louis HOME Consortium meetings, participates in all Balance of State Continuum of Care meetings and meets with other County Departments on a regular basis to ensure coordination and availability of services to LMI clientele.

Describe coordination with the Continuum of Care and efforts to address the needs of homeless persons (particularly chronically homeless individuals and families, families with children, veterans, and unaccompanied youth) and persons at risk of homelessness.

Jefferson County is a member of the Balance of State Continuum of Care (CoC) and does not receive homeless funding itself in light of the significantly small numbers of homeless persons as reported during the past several year’s homeless counts. Entitlement staff participate in the quarterly regional meetings of the CoC.

Describe consultation with the Continuum(s) of Care that serves the jurisdiction’s area in determining how to allocate ESG funds, develop performance standards for and evaluate outcomes of projects and activities assisted by ESG funds, and develop funding, policies and procedures for the operation and administration of HMIS

Table 5 - Expected Resources – Priority Table

Explain how federal funds will leverage those additional resources (private, state and local funds), including a description of how matching requirements will be satisfied

While Jefferson County does not require matching funds on infrastructure projects, it is highly encouraged and past projects have shown a significant amount of “in-kind” labor injected into projects by the entities receiving funds.

If appropriate, describe publicly owned land or property located within the jurisdiction that may be used to address the needs identified in the plan

Table 7 – Project Information

Describe the reasons for allocation priorities and any obstacles to addressing underserved needs

The primary national objective of the Consolidated Plan is to assist and benefit low-income and moderate-income residents, Jefferson County’s grant program funds will be targeted to low-income and moderate-income residents, neighborhoods and activities that benefit these residents as a whole.

The Jefferson County Entitlement program is comprised of County-wide programs which include but are not limited to housing rehabilitation, sanitary sewer infrastructure (both individual residential and municipal), storm water infrastructure (municipal), removal of architectural barriers/Americans with Disabilities Act and any similar, low-to-moderate-income activities deemed a priority in the community needs surveys received by the Entitlement program during the planning process. 100% of the Entitlement funds are available to residents of all unincorporated areas of the County as well as within the jurisdictions of the participating municipalities.

During 2017 the primary obstacles in meeting under-served needs were that of availability of funding resources and qualified applicants. Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding for Jefferson County has seen minor decreases over the ten years of its participation. The most significant decrease to our program occurred in 2011 when the CDBG program overall received a 16.5%. This resulted in a $200,000 cut in funding causing a significant reduction of applicants that could be served during that program year and beyond. If additional cuts of this magnitude are made to CDBG for future program years, Jefferson County may be forced to discontinue some programs previously funded and reduce staff. In regard to qualified applicants, the past declining and currently flat economy continues to take its toll on LMI applicants, primarily in the reduced current value of homes. As a result, this lower valuation has significantly reduced the amount of available equity required to meet program guidelines.

While unemployment does continue to decline in Jefferson County, it has been identified in typical LMI applicants that a commitment to retain an owner-occupied home for the five years for participation in any given program is a commitment that many are not comfortable in making seeing the unstable financial situation of this sector of the population. Typically, LMI applicants have represented a high percentage of the unemployed, if such applicant has successfully gained employment; they are very skeptical as to the longevity of the employment and therefore also very skeptical about making a legal commitment for the five-year forgiveness period required by our programs. It is the opinion of staff that these stated obstacles continue to reduce the number of applicants overall for all programs currently offered. Program requirements may need to be adjusted to overcome this need.

Additionally, the on-going State of Missouri budget cuts which affect local agencies that traditionally deliver services to low-moderate income individuals and families (Dept. of Mental Health, Medicaid, Dept. of Health and Senior Services) have had an equally significant impact on Jefferson County residents. This, along with the reduced CDBG and HOME funding that Jefferson County has received and the anticipated future cuts, Jefferson County expects to be severely impacted over the current and possible future consolidated plan periods. In addition, some needs are not met because of choices to fund one set of priority needs over another. Jefferson County will continue to seek out additional areas of funding and investigate leveraging opportunities if available.

AP-50 Geographic Distribution - 91.420, 91.220(f)

Description of the geographic areas of the entitlement (including areas of low-income and minority concentration) where assistance will be directed

Because Jefferson County qualifies as an Urban County as defined by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the size of its entitlement (CDBG and HOME funding) is determined by both unincorporated residents and residents of the participating municipalities. Currently 11 out of 15 municipalities have joined Jefferson County in meeting the requirements necessary to receive funding.

Because the primary national objective of the Consolidated Plan is to assist and benefit low-income and moderate-income residents, Jefferson County's grant program funds will be targeted to low-income and moderate-income residents, neighborhoods and activities that benefit these residents as a whole.

Geographic Distribution

Target Area	Percentage of Funds
Jefferson County	100%

Table 8 - Geographic Distribution

Rationale for the priorities for allocating investments geographically

The Jefferson County Entitlement program is comprised of County-wide programs which include but are not limited to housing rehabilitation, sanitary sewer infrastructure (both individual residential and municipal), storm water infrastructure (municipal), removal of architectural barriers/Americans with Disabilities Act and any similar, low-to-moderate-income activities deemed a priority in the community needs surveys received by the Entitlement program during the planning process. 100% of the Entitlement funds are available to residents of all unincorporated areas of the County as well as within the jurisdictions of the participating municipalities.

Discussion

AP-75 Barriers to affordable housing -91.420, 91.220(j)

Introduction

The Analysis of Impediments to Fair Housing Choice (AI) is a comprehensive review of a jurisdiction's laws, regulations, and administrative policies, procedures and practices affecting the location, availability, and accessibility of housing, as well as an assessment of conditions, both public and private, affecting fair housing choice. Impediments to fair housing choice are any actions, omissions, or decisions taken because of race, color, religion, sex, disability, familial status, or national origin. Policies, practices, or procedures that appear neutral on their face, but which operate to deny or adversely the provision of housing to persons of a particular race, color, religion, sex, disability, familial status, or national origin may constitute such impediments.

Actions it planned to remove or ameliorate the negative effects of public policies that serve as barriers to affordable housing such as land use controls, tax policies affecting land, zoning ordinances, building codes, fees and charges, growth limitations, and policies affecting the return on residential investment

Jefferson County is sensitive to the effects that public policies have on the cost (including development, maintenance, rehabilitation or management) of affordable housing within its jurisdiction. An Analysis of Impediments Study was completed for Jefferson County. The study concludes with relatively few identified impediments. None of the impediments listed were related to public policies that would or could hinder the development, maintenance or rehabilitation of affordable housing or add to the cost of existing affordable units within Jefferson County.

Since Jefferson County does not believe that any local policy or regulation exists to create significant barrier to the development, maintenance or improvement of any affordable housing within its jurisdiction, there is no need at this time to development a strategy to address these. Should barriers present themselves, the County will at that point address and develop a strategy to remove or ameliorate such negative effect.

Discussion

As a member of the St. Louis HOME Consortium, Jefferson County is served by several local fair housing, affordable housing, and homeless service organizations (Equal Housing Opportunity Council (EHOC), Beyond Housing, Legal Services of Eastern Missouri, Jefferson-Franklin Community Action Agency, Better Family Life, the Lemay Housing Partnership, and Catholic Charities). Activities include fair housing testing, complaint investigation, fair housing education, transitional housing, rent and mortgage assistance, and other housing-related assistance.

AP-85 Other Actions - 91.420, 91.220(k)

Introduction:

This section identifies other actions to be taken by Jefferson County during 2018.

Actions planned to address obstacles to meeting underserved needs

Regarding qualified applicants, Jefferson County will continue to work with applicants to attempt to assist them in meeting the qualifications of the programs. If continued lack of equity is determined to affect the program over all, staff may recommend that program requirements be adjusted. In regard to funding, Jefferson County will continue to investigate creative leveraging strategies and additional funding sources.

Actions planned to foster and maintain affordable housing

Jefferson County does not believe there to be any local policies or regulations that create significant barriers to development, maintain or improve affordable housing within its jurisdiction.

The Analysis of Impediments to Fair Housing Choice (AI) is a comprehensive review of a jurisdiction's laws, regulations, and administrative policies, procedures and practices affecting the location, availability, and accessibility of housing, as well as an assessment of conditions, both public and private, affecting fair housing choice. Impediments to fair housing choice are any actions, omissions, or decisions taken because of race, color, religion, sex, disability, familial status, or national origin. Policies, practices, or procedures that appear neutral on their face, but which operate to deny or adversely the provision of housing to persons of a particular race, color, religion, sex, disability, familial status, or national origin may constitute such impediments.

Actions planned to reduce lead-based paint hazards

Jefferson County will continue existing efforts to reduce the Lead Paint Hazards in the County. This goal is achieved through the County's Home Rehabilitation Programs in which contractors comply with all applicable Federal and State regulations. Jefferson County administration staff and contractors utilized are trained in Lead Safe Work Practices as required by our current funding levels per housing unit.

Jefferson County follows Federal and State of Missouri regulations in testing for lead and mitigating its affects. All housing units that are assisted with CDBG or HOME funding are inspected for deteriorated paint. Further, Jefferson County had previously contracted with United Infrastructure Corporation of St. Louis to execute lead based paint risk assessments for all homes constructed prior to 1978. During 2017 this company closed its operations. As a result, Jefferson County located an alternate licensed company, Herlacher Angleton Associates, LLC out of Barnhart, MO to perform the program's Lead Testing. All surfaces are treated using lead safe work practices and activity clearance is obtained, if necessary, from the assessment authorities. Jefferson County does not receive any additional funding for direct lead remediation.

Actions planned to reduce the number of poverty-level families

A number of governmental agencies and private organizations operate programs within Jefferson County to reduce public funding dependency and poverty among its residents. Primarily among those agencies are the Missouri Division of Family Services and the Jefferson/Franklin Community Action Agency, both of which are state and federally funded. They offer broad based assistance to primarily welfare recipients and the extremely low to low-income residents. Assistance includes but is not limited to food stamps, Medicaid health insurance, aid to dependent children, Section 8 housing vouchers, WIC, counseling, family self-sufficiency programs and several other programs which provide assistance to our low-income residents. Jefferson County seeks to reduce the number of poverty level families by investing its CDBG and HOME funds into programs and projects that support affordable housing overall and foster self-sufficiency and sustainability.

Jefferson County, like many other sister communities has seen high unemployment rates and dramatically decreased new housing starts over the past several years. Existing small "Starter" type housing units that tend to be more affordable for LMI families are typically not readily available in all areas of Jefferson County. The housing slowdown has significantly reduced additional units of this size and price range from coming "online" in the past couple of years. These trends put an additional burden on individuals and families at and below the poverty level. In many cases, low-income families are forced to pay a disproportionate amount of their incomes for safe and affordable housing which in turn affects all aspects of an individual or family's success in life.

To address this, the Jefferson County Entitlement program, in an effort to enhance but not duplicate service, utilizes referrals (in addition to its own outside applicants) from all local agencies to help provide additional services in order to assist these individuals on their track from dependency to independency. This is achieved through several programs/activities.

The first-time home buyer program operated through the County's HOME funds provides financial assistance to LMI residents wishing to achieve their goal of home ownership, the home rehabilitation programs provides funds to alleviate health and safety issues to existing housing units (most Jefferson County LMI residents locate in older homes needing repairs due to their affordability). Job training/economic development is provided through the County's various business funding programs offered primarily through the EDC and local banks (direct micro-enterprise program when funding is available) and through support of the County's workforce development program which utilizes Jefferson College's extensive workforce development programs and the Missouri Career Center System which serves as a labor exchange for both businesses and job seekers.

Unfortunately, Jefferson County does not have any identifiable transitional housing. While the need seems to exist, insufficient funding levels have played a major factor in meeting this need. The county will continue to search for additional funding and/or partner organizations to help meet this need, but the County is doubtful that it will be satisfied within this 5-year consolidated plan period.

Actions planned to develop institutional structure

During 2018 the institutional structure through which Jefferson County will carry out its housing and community development activities will continue to be through its contracted administrator, The Economic Development Corporation of Jefferson County with final adoption/approval of the Jefferson County Council. The EDC is a not-for-profit organization funded by the County of Jefferson and its participating municipalities to carry out general economic development programs including but not limited to programs available through the Small Business Administration (SBA), State of Missouri (DED), Economic Development Administration (EDA), and various other economic incentive programs as available. As a result of the range of tools and diversity that the EDC has available to it, the County of Jefferson relies upon the EDC for in-house administration of its countywide CDBG programs and activities, which benefit low-to-moderate income residents, eliminate slum and blighted conditions or, address an urgent need.

Additional needs of the participating municipalities and non-profit organizations are determined at a local level and reported to the administrator for execution if deemed a priority need and funded. This organizational structure for delivery has been chosen because each municipal government can focus on the needs within its area of the County and the non-profit organizations can specialize on specific areas of service within all communities.

Jefferson County receives yearly HOME funding through its participation with the St. Louis HOME Consortium. St. Louis County Office of Community Development (OCD) is the administrator of these funds. Members of the St. Louis HOME Consortium meet on a quarterly basis to oversee project activity and annually to create policy, develop housing strategy and implement activities directed under the HOME program. Each member holds public hearings to make the public aware of their proposed use of HOME funds.

Actions planned to enhance coordination between public and private housing and social service agencies

Jefferson County takes a County-wide approach to issues affecting our low-to-moderate populations and engages in ongoing coordination between all providers of service whether public or private, at all given opportunities.

In addition to providing public notice and copies of all written plans to the participating municipalities and all public libraries, to encourage public participation, Public Notices are also sent to the following public service agencies representing special interest groups, citizens with disabilities and low-to-moderate income individuals: Developmental Services of Jefferson County, Disability Resource Association, Catholic Community Services, Comtrea, Family Resource Center, Festus Housing Authority, Habitat for Humanity, Jefferson County Community Partnership, Jefferson County Family Services, Jefferson County Rescue Mission, Jefferson-Franklin Community Action Corporation, St. Vincent De Paul Society, Jefferson County Health Department and the Salvation Army.

Additionally, to enhance continued coordination, Jefferson County participates in quarterly meetings of the Jefferson County Housing Solutions Coalition (JCHSC), a group comprised of individuals and organizations from various low-to-moderate income housing and service providers within the County, attends St. Louis HOME Consortium meetings, participates in all Balance of State Continuum of Care meetings and meets with other County Departments on a regular basis to ensure coordination and availability of services to LMI clientele.
